VIOLENCE FLARES IN GALION STRIKE

MISSING GIRL HUNT CENTERS ON NEW CLUE

Roxie Green Reported in Columbus; License of Auto Checked.

A report that Roxie Ann Green, 15, missing Prospect High school sophomore, was seen in Columbus early Wednesday morning in the company of a young man and another young couple was being checked by the Marion county sheriff's office today.

Investigation of the report, only new clew of any consequence to develop in the last few days, took Deputy Sheriff Raymond LaMonda into Knox and Licking counties. Roxie disappeared a week ago tonight as she walked to her home four miles east of Prospect after attending a football game at Chesterville.

Check of the new clue started after James Ferguson, an attendant at the Buckeye Motor Car Co. service station at 237 East Broad street in Columbus, told police there he was certain he had seen Roxie at the station Wednesday.

Hears Name Spoken

He said the two couples said they were on their way to Catlettsburg, Ky., to be married. He also said others in the party addressed one of the girls as Roxie.

The four were riding in a model A Ford automobile, the same type of car that has figured prominently in the search since it started a week ago.

Ferguson told Columbus police he had seen news accounts of the disappearance of Roxie but had paid little attention to the details. It wasn't until Thursday, when he saw another account in a morning paper, that he linked the occurrence of the day before with the disappearance of the Prospect girl.

Sees Picture

When a Columbus reporter showed him a picture of the Prospect girl he said, "I'm absolutely sure one of the girls was Roxie."

Ferguson told Columbus Policewoman Madelaine Baker Thursday afternoon that both couples entered the service station in a 1929 model Ford sedan and asked if they could use the washroom to clean up.

Miss Baker was quoted as saying she was told both girls were dressed in dark skirts and white blouses. The other girl was about 20 years old and was four or five inches taller than the one believed to be Roxie.

The man with "Roxie" was about 23 years old and was tall and blond while the other one was about 18, short and had black hair, Ferguson said. Both men wore sport shirts.

Make Long Stay

The station attendant also said all four were dirty and mussed up. They spent about a half-hour in the washroom, he added. The couples made several trips to the car and seemed to be looking for clean clothes. Sheriff LeRoy Retterer said this morning he was informed there were two or three suitcases in the rear seat of the sedan.

Columbus news reports quoted Ferguson as saying:

"Things didn't look just right when they were there, but there wasn't anything wrong I could put my finger on, although affections were openly displayed."

Ferguson didn't obtain the complete license number of the car but did recall the letter and the first two numerals which were "U4." A check with the state bureau of motor vehicles revealed six model A Fords which have "U4" on their license plates.

These licenses, Sheriff Retterer said, were issued to Knox, Licking and Muskingum county cars. Four were checked last night and removed from the list of suspected cars. The other two are being checked in Centerburg, Knox county, and Frazeyburg, Licking county, by Deputy LaMonda today.

LaMonda is attempting to learn if one of the cars is missing.

This morning investigators had no definite idea as to how Roxie could have become attached to the party reported in Columbus.

Cry Heard by Neighbors

They have learned that an old model car headed west on route turned around in the road and drove back in the opposite

Britain To End 25-Year Rule Of Palestine

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 26—Britain announced today that she had decided to end her 25-year mandate rule over Palestine if the United Nations failed to find a settlement of the Holy Land problem acceptable to both Jews and Arabs.

Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech-Jones advised the general assembly's 55-nation Palestine committee that the problem of enforcing any unpopular settlement would have to be handled by the UN itself—and not Britain.

Creech-Jones also declared that Britain was ready to surrender her League of Nations mandate over the strife-torn Holy Land regardless of the nature of the assembly's final decisions.

A British spokesman made it clear that the question of terminating the mandate and the question of withdrawing entirely from Palestine were separte matters. He explained that Britain would be willing to continue in Palestine in a different status after the mandate was ended if Arab-Jewish agreement could be reached. This could take the form of a United Nations trusteeship administered by Britain in place of the mandate.

It was disclosed meanwhile that Secretary of State Marshall conferred this forenoon with Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, a leading spokesman for the Jewish Agency Executive for Palestine.

Early Withdrawal

Creech-Jones said his government had decided on an early withdrawal of British tropos and the British administration from Palestine if no settlement was reached.

This was seen as a virtual declaration that Britain would be ready to pull out on a fixed date, since there appeared to be little chance of the UN finding a solution acceptable to both Jews and Arabs.

Creech-Jones did not commit Britain definitely to the report of the assembly's committee of inquiry, which recommended the Holy Land's partition into Jewish and Arab countries. He said, however:

"I cannot easily imagine circumstances in which we should wish to prevent the application of a settlement recommended by the assembly."

The main problem, Creech-Jones said, was enforcement of the assembly's recommendations. He said the UN itself must handle this problem.

"His majesty's government are not themselves prepared to undertake the task of imposing a policy in Palestine by force of arms," he continued.

Must Consider Justice

"Likewise, in considering any proposal to the effect that his majesty's government should participate with others in the enforcement of a settlement, they must take into account both the inherent justice of the settlement, and the extent to which force would be required to give it effect."

Creech-Jones began his statement with a declaration that Britain was in substantial agreement with the 12 general recommendations submitted by the UN Palestine inquiry committee (UNSCOP) including termination of the League mandate and urgent UN action to aid displaced persons in Europe.

Details To Come

He said Britain was prepared to make specific proposals on the

2 STATES GIVE TAFT DIM HOPE

Washington, Oregon See Little Chance for Ohioan To Capture Delegates.

By The Associated Press

ENROUTE WITH TAFT TO PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 26—Republican politicians of Washington and Oregon credited Senator Taft (R-Ohio) today with only an outside chance to obtain more than scattering support among the two states' 31 delegates to the G.O.P. nominating convention next year.

Taft, who talks tonight at a young Republican meeting in Gearhart, Ore., has been holding conferences with leaders of the two states in between a series of speeches topped by last night's proposal in Tacoma that the United States take the lead "to perfect a United Nations" without Russia.

His appearance in Tacoma was accompanied by the picketing to which he has become accustomed but without the noisy display encountered at Seattle. About 60 placard-bearing pickets marched in a circle, singing but orderly while Taft entered unnoticed by the stage entrance.

"Leave Russia Out"

He told the Tacoma world affairs council that if Russia continues to make it "difficult" to operate the present international organization in the interests of peace and justice, "I believe we should proceed without Russia to perfect a United Nations that will operate in a limited field."

"We have perfected such an organization with the Latin-American nations which may serve as an example to the rest of the world," the Ohio senator declared in a speech setting out the full outline of his views on international affairs.

Holdup Victim Faces Charge of Extortion From Accused Robber

John Williams, 36, of 132 West Columbia street pleaded not guilty in municipal court today in answer to an attempted extortion charge filed yesterday in connection with an alleged armed robbery and assault on July 31.

In charges filed yesterday by Prosecutor James E. Reed, Williams is charged with communicating orally with Paul Clark of 131½ South State street, asking the latter for $1,500 to keep him (Williams) from testifying against Clark at the grand jury fall session now in progress.

Clark, charged with the armed robbery and assault of Williams last July 31, pleaded not guilty after his arrest and was bound over to grand jury on $2,000 bond. He furnished bond and was released shortly after arraignment.

Williams was arrested shortly after 9 p. m. Wednesday a short distance from his home by Russell M. Wilhelm, acting as a special county prosecutor, and Deputy Sheriff M. E. Baldwin. He was committed to county jail until his arraignment today when he entered his plea and was bound over to grand jury on $1,000. His case is scheduled to go before the present grand jury session.

It is believed to be the first time in the county that a prosecutor's witness is scheduled to appear at the same jury session as a defendant.

Report Threats

In the court this morning, both Mr. and Mrs. Williams told a reporter they had received a number of threats in person and by phone since the robbery in July.

When brought to municipal court this morning by Sheriff LeRoy Retterer, Williams was met by his wife who later furnished the $1,000 property bond fixed by Paul Simpson, acting municipal judge.

According to reports from persons who know both families, Clark and Williams have known each other personally for a number of years and were said to be associated in business at one time. At the time of the robbery, Mr. and Mrs. Williams claimed they knew Clark only casually and had never had any trouble with him. It is reported that the two disagreed about money matters some time ago and the disagreement created ill feeling between the two.

Clark's case was to have been before grand jury yesterday afternoon at 2 p. m. but was postponed.

Account of Robbery

According to the account of the robbery on July 31 printed in The Star, Williams was returning from downtown when he was slugged by a masked robber at 4:20 a. m. as he was entering his home.

The furious barking of a Scottie dog was credited with saving him a worse blow. Williams was taken to City hospital, treated and released and later reentered when he collapsed from nervous shock. He remained there for only a short time.

The bandit at that time was reported to have escaped between the houses on the south side of the street. Sounds of the struggle and cries of help from Mrs. Williams and the two children aroused the entire neighborhood.

Assailant Recognized

At that time Williams claimed he recognized the assailant and filed charges against Paul Clark. Williams said that the handkerchief covering the lower part of his face billowed out when he bent over to take money and finger rings from Williams. Williams said more than $70 was stolen at that time. The bandit was routed before he could take the rings from Williams' fingers.

Clark was arrested by city police shortly after charges were filed.

Living at the Columbia street address are Mr. and Mrs. Williams, a 16-year-old daughter, Reatha and a small son, John Jr., 3½ years.

GUNMEN KILL FOUR IN PALESTINE HOLDUP

By The United Press

JERUSALEM, Sept. 26 — A gang of gunmen held up the British-owned Barclay's bank in Tel Aviv today, killed four British policemen in a wild shooting affray, and fled with $600,000 of which $400,000 was recovered.

The bold holdup in the teeming heart of the all-Jewish city, one of the biggest bank robberies in the history of Palestine, was attributed tentatively by authorities to the Stern group of the Jewish underground.

The bloody raid on the gray fortress-like bank in busy Allenby road ended an uneasy truce in troubled Palestine on the day that the Holy Land problem was coming before the United Nations at Lake Success.

Two suspects were seized by police within a few hours of the robbery. A third, a 27-year-old Jew who was taken wounded to Hadassah hospital, was under custody on suspicion. Reports circulated that still other arrests had been made.

Army and police squads swarmed-in force through Tel Aviv, checking up on pedestrians and motor traffic.

EISLER MAY BE DEPORTED

Inquiry Chief Says Committee Will Probably Ask Red Be Ousted from U. S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) said today the house committee on un-American activities probably will recommend deportation action against Hanns Eisler, German-born Hollywood composer.

As the committee neared the end of its investigation into Eisler's entrance into the United States, Thomas told newsmen he and other committee members are convinced that "this is a case for the justice department."

Testimony given the committee by Eisler, Thomas said, is in direct conflict with the composer's statements to immigration authorities "and he was under oath both times."

Calls Final Witnesses

Thomas called as final witnesses today Clarence H. Porter, chief inspector for the immigration and naturalization service, and P. C. Hutton, now consul at Guatemala City, Guatamala.

Through them, he said, he will "prove that pressure from Washington was brought to allow Hanns Eisler to stay in this country for permanent residence."

The committee already has questioned Sumner Welles, former undersecretary of state, and George S. Messersmith, former assistant secretary of state, both of whom were in the department when Eisler's case was handled.

Top Officials Named

It has received copies of correspondence in which Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt asked Welles to see that Eisler be given a chance to "defend himself" and in which Messersmith advised Coert Du Bois, consul general at Havana, to give the Eisler visa application his personal attention.

Also in evidence is a visa division memorandum prepared in October, 1938, describing Eisler as a Communist and not entitled to permanent residence in this country.

Eisler entered the United States finally in 1940 on a visa issued by the consul general at Mexicali, Mexico. When the immigration service halted him at the border, he appealed and a board of appeals in Washington approved his admission as a professor of music. His original application was filed at Havana but was transferred to Mexico.

Pennsylvania Railroad Hauls Fire to Firemen

By International News Service

KENTON, Sept. 26 — There's nothing like bringing the fire to the department's front door.

An eastbound freight of the Pennsylvania railroad pulled into Forest today for help in extinguishing a fire which had broken out in a car just behind the engine. Sparks from a mechanical gear had ignited excelsior on the floor of the car and the flames spread to the wooden framework.

Trainmen learned when they stopped at Forest that the fire department was just across the street. Fire Chief Morris Burk credited the department's new 800-gallon pumper with quickly extinguishing the blaze.

TROUBLE HALTS ATTEMPT TO RESUME WORK

Windows Smashed and Official Slugged After Group Passes Picket Line.

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 26 — Violence breaking out last night at the strikebound North Electric Co. plant here resulted in the abandonment of company plans to reopen the plant today.

The disturbance which followed entrance of 26 company engineers and officials yesterday afternoon in a "test to see if the union would prevent anyone from entering the plant" included:

First, smashing of about 200 windows in the plant by a crowd estimated at 300 irate workers.

Second, slugging of R. K. McBerty, company vice president, by a union committee member in an altercation at the company gate, and Third, burning of a company truck parked in front of the warehouse near the plant.

In the face of a hostile picket line, and on the advice of Police Chief James L. Walker, the company temporarily shelved its plan to operate a single shift starting at 6:30 a. m. today.

Mr. McBerty said he would ask the Crawford County Common pleas court to issue an injunction prohibiting violence and limiting the number of pickets" as soon as possible".

Catch Pickets Off Guard

The issue in the five week old strike called by the UAW-CIO was joined yesterday when the company apparently caught the union "off guard", according to observers. Only three pickets were at the main gate when McBerty led 25 to 30 company officials, engineers and office workers into the plant at 1:15 p. m. The pickets made no attempt to halt them, nor did they interfere when the group left the plant later in the afternoon. One member of the group, personnel manager Alan Ryon was momentarily detained at the gate but was released.

UAW leader Edward Duck conducting the strike was in Marion at the time engaged in an "unofficial hearing" in Marion county common pleas Judge Paul D. Smith's chambers concerning the strike at the McMillen Feed Mills plant in Marion also under the jurisdiction of the UAW.

Pickets were increased at the plant as soon as Duck hastily returned to Galion after being notified of developments there.

Asked To Report Today

Following the peaceable entry into the plant yesterday afternoon, Lloyd Bender, company vice president asked production workers to report at 6:18 a. m. today, adding that the office would be open to the regular force at 8 a. m.

By midnight an estimated 300 persons, mostly workers, were milling around the plant. McBerty said he was called to the telephone at his home about midnight and informed that a mob was stoning the plant.

At 12:15, the Galion fire department answered a box alarm from First street near the North company warehouse. A company three quarter ton stake body truck had caught fire. The truck was parked at the curb in front of the warehouse at the time. The interior of the cab and wiring was badly damaged, firemen said. McBerty said outright that "somebody had set fire to it." Cause of the fire is undetermined according to firemen.

Hurling of brickbats through plant windows continued sporadically through the night. Scattered missiles were still being lobbed over the fence into the plant early this morning as the deadline for the morning shift to come on duty approached.

Police Chief Walker estimated that 300 men were assembled in front of the plant. He estimated that 100 of them were CIO union members from Toledo and Marion. McBerty also said he did not recognzei a large number of them as his employes.

At the 6:19 shift time, actual pickets patroling back and forth at the main gate numbered 75. Workers, spectators and company officials swelled the crowd to treble that number.

Cause of Blows

It was over respecting the 75-man picket line that McBerty and the union committeeman came to blows. George Wilt, member of the shop committee following a heated argument in which he claimed McBerty called him a "—— —— liar" swung on the vice president hitting him in the mouth.

Noted Layman To Preach at Conference Here

Arrangements have been completed for a Christ for the World convention here, with the first service of the three-day meeting set for tonight in Trinity Baptist church. Brought here by sponsoring religious and civic groups, the speakers will include two missionary workers, Miss Elizabeth Turner, executive secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions office in Chicago, a former missionary to China, and Dr. Donald W. McClure, pioneer missionary of the Presbyterian church to the South Sudanese in Africa. Both have arrived in Marion and spoke this forenoon in high schools here.

For two services in the Garfield park pavilion Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, Kiwanis club, through its church committee, has arranged to bring here R. G. LeTourneau, a leading American industrialist and Christian layman who has gained wide recognition in both fields, inculcating in his industrial policies the principles of Christian ideals and recognition of spiritual values.

God Is His Partner

Twenty years ago when Mr. LeTourneau began his amazing career as a "one-tool" garage mechanic he took "God as his Senior Partner" and has made vast strides in the business and manufacturing world and during the recent war his large five-factory corporation, with plants located in three continents, produced approximately half of the world's earth-moving machinery, and helped to revolutionize the building of highways, airports and cantonments. Among the most recent creations of this ingenius inventor is a machine made and machine laid steel and concrete home which may be set up in a single day with a "Tournalayer" which was designed by Mr. LeTourneau and his engineers. His interests are not confined to the development of earth-moving machinery and similar mechanical devices, but through the LeTourneau Foundation he is putting annually many thousands of dollars into worthy civic and religious enterprises, owning and operating two radio stations and a flying school to train missionary pilots.

A fourth service of the convention Sunday night will be sponsored by the youth department of the Marion County Council of Churches and will be held in Trinity church.

Corn—Popped Variety—Assures Popularity of Hollywood Movies

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept 26—The subject today is corn. No matter how corny the entertainment on the screen, a plentiful supply of corn (hot, popped, salted and buttered) assures the popularity of any movie.

This flat statement on the relationship between the art of the cinema and the appetite of the audience comes from unimpeachable sources and I only hope Mr Gable, Miss LaMarr and Prof Ameche read no more of this They will not be flattered by the facts

When I heard that the Theater Equipment and Supply Manufacturers association was assembled here in annual convention, with history's biggest display of movie machinery on tab, I rushed to headquarters I'm only sorry I wasn't hungry.

The place was all over chromium-plated popcorn machines, designed to make thirsty the lovers of the silver sheet soda pop machines intended to slake this thirst, and automatic change makers to simplify both transactions

Final Warning

A Mr. Jacobson of the Krispy Kist Korn Co, of Chicago, Ill, was there with his french fried corn The T and C O. had a machine which filled a sack with pop corn when a dime was inserted in the slot, plus a number of 100-pound sacks (for immediate delivery) of unpopped corn

And this is my final warning Mr. Gable, Miss LaMarr and Prof Ameche read on at your own peril

Among the numerous other corn corporations, with booths spotted among the projector, carpet and seating displays, was the Pronto Popcorn Co, of Boston, Mass It had blizzards of pink and White popcorn (kept at an even temperature of 126 degrees Fahrenheit) swirling behind glass

"No sir," said Muni Ladge, an executive of Pronto, "we do not use pink popcorn in our commercial operations, Only white"

Forgets Screen

Ladge was a friendly and—I mean this in a complimentary way—enthusiastic popcorn popper Give him a sack of popcorn and he doesn't much care what's on the screen, or how noisy is the popcorn sack.

Popcorn fundamentally is a land commodity and he takes little stock of efforts of the silent popcorn bag. Only improvement in this direction which he approves is the sack. with holes punched in it.

This prevents the audience from blowing up its bags and making them bang

"Not noiseless," said Ladge "Just less noise. But it is an idea of merit when you consider that there is nothing a theater can sell, including tickets, which returns so much profit as good, crisp popcorn"

His, he said, is the crispest of all His also presumably is the noisiest, but I didn't have the heart to go into that He was gazing the other way, anyhow, in the direction of a scale model, prefabricated, 500-seat theater, $75,000 F O B, New York City, immediate delivery, ready for installation of a popcorn machine

"What I wanted to say," Ladge said," is that one of the biggest theater magnates in America told me just give him a good popcorn machine and he'd build a theater around it That is how the industry feels about popcorn"

Ladge added that cooking odors from the popcorn machinery once were his biggest problem The smell of popcorn is elegant, but the smell of popcorn being popped is scorchy Separating these aromas was a tough job, but the engineers licked it So it is today that the corn of the cinema smells delicious Or so said Ladge I am not the one to argue.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Typhus

Typhus has been known and dreaded for centuries as one of the devastating epidemic diseases which sweep across whole countries in the wake of war and famine.

In the United States we have fortunately never had this severe form of typhus, but there have been outbreaks of a milder type known as scrub typhus, and also of a related disease known as Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever This group of infections is known as rickettsial diseases because they are caused by organisms known as Rickettsia

Until recently, no specific treatment for these conditions had been available

For Rocky Mountain spotted fever, and epidemic typhus, serums have been developed, but to have any appreciable effect these serums had to be administered in the first three days of the disease. Unfortunately, the rickettsial diseases are difficult to diagnose, and it is unusual for the diagnosis to be made as early as the first three days.

About four years ago, it was found that a substance called paraaminobenzoic acid had some effect on these rickettsial diseases The effects of this preparation on scrub typhus, which occurs in the Far East, was brought out.

In a group of patients studied, every other patient was given the preparation, while the remainder of the patients were treated in other ways In the cases treated with the para-aminobenzoic acid, no deaths occurred, while the disorder was fatal in about one out of five in those treated with other methods

Improvement in the condition started as soon as the administration of the drug was begun After two or three days, the temperature began to drop, and the lymph glands, which had become enlarged, became smaller in size.

It was noted that in some of the patients treated with para-aminobenzoic acid a great decrease in the number of white blood cells occurred The use of the drug then had to be stopped, but after four or five days the number of white blood cells began again to increase, and the white count was normal at the time the patients were discharged

Thus, when para-aminobenzoic acid is used, the white blood cells should be counted every two days and, if a drop occurs, the use of the drug should be stopped The patients should be given plenty of fluids during the treatment

The earlier treatment is started the better the results It would appear to be worth while to give para-aminobenzoic acid further trial in the rickettsial disorders, since in it we seem to have our first "directed missile' against a whole group of very dangerous diseases

Could be. He's young and healthy enough and rarin' to go. He's ready to learn, too.

That's why you mothers and fathers started teaching Bobby at an early age to eat well, get plenty of sleep and BE CLEAN. Cleanliness is sometimes a chore for a little boy, but you know that all through his life, soap and water are going to be his good friends.

YOUR children will find it easier to keep clean if there is always a plentiful supply of hot water on tap.

Notice To ALL Mothers of Marion from Just ONE Mother!

What do you do with clothing your children have outgrown? Is it discarded? We have a plan that will enable you to exchange these garments for the exact size you desire!

For instance, let us say that you have a size 3 snowsuit which your child has outgrown is still in good wearable condition; you may need a 4 or 5, but since you just bought the size 3 suit last year, you don't feel that you can put too much in a new suit this year. You bring your size 3 suit to us and exchange it for a size 4 or 5 (whichever you desire). Of course, values are compared and a small handling charge is made.

Or it might be that you have a lot of good used children's clothing and don't feel like giving it away. Bring them to us! We will buy them—have them cleaned and mended if necessary—and then they will be ready for resale or exchange.

Now, Mothers, this clothing is to be of the best quality and in good condition. We hope to have all types of clothing for children of all ages. This service is designed to help parents of children who desire good clothing. Often children grow so fast that you may have to buy for school as well as for Sunday wear yet in many cases our pocketbooks can not stand high prices—that is what this shop is for help parents buy good clothing for their children at reasonable prices!

Bring your used clothing to us—if you desire to buy that's fine—if not, your clothing will be here for sale or exchange!

Wrong Game Bagged in N. Y. Mosquito Hunt

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — The chit-chaff roundup:

A young husband here has found a new way to hunt mosquitoes. He uses a vacuum cleaner.

Carrying one of the tank-type cleaners in one hand and its hose in the other, he stalks about his apartment until he spots a mosquito — sometimes known hereabouts as "East River Robins." He slides the hose nozzle slowly up to the insect and suddenly — swoosh! — it is sucked into the cleaner.

Hal Boyle

"I caught eight the other night—and two moths," boasted this apartment house Nimrod.

His wife, however, is thinking of declaring a closed season. While he was prowling around the bedroom he accidentally brushed the cleaner nozzle against a dressing table on which lay the wife's new brassiere.

Whoosh! — and it disappeared into the cleaner.

If you have trouble at the racetrack following by eye the horse on which your $2 is riding, a swank Madison avenue jewelry shop has just the gadget you need.

It's a gem-incrusted solid gold pair of binoculars which the defunct Russian Czar once gave to a Turkish Sultan. The price tag says $20,000. It makes a nice hedge against inflation, but most people would need another pair of binoculars to see it at that price.

College men are perennially broke. But Harry Augustine of Sherwood, Wis., doesn't believe they are having any tougher time financially than they did in the years when he was at the University of Wisconsin in quest of a sheepskin.

"My roommate and I were so poor," he recalled, "we stayed home on Saturday nights and played poker for raisins."

Ed Howe, the "Sage of Potato Hill" and crusty word genius of the Atchison Globe, is a legend out Kansas way.

The late Carl Brown, his managing editor, liked to tell of the time Howe gave him a $4 raise after he pulped down a wife-beater who got nasty with him. The next week Brown got into another fight while on an assignment. This time he dropped the decision. Howe promptly revoked the raise.

"I pay you to win fights, not to lose them," he told his battered editor.

Johnny Florea, whose camera caught some of the war's best news pictures, is back from a trek through the Far East for Life magazine. He finds life much simpler without the Japanese houseboy he had in Tokyo.

This lad, known to his mother as Ikinero Sabiero and to the press as "Shorty," saw Florea gulping down some pills one evening and asked what they were for.

"To make me sleep," Johnny told him. The next day Shorty asked if he could have some of the pills, too.

"Sleep so much daytime," he yawned, "no sleep at night."

Shorty had the Oriental servant's typical dislike for disturbing the serenity of his master in any way. Once Florea, before retiring, cautioned the houseboy repeatedly to awaken him at 7 a. m., sharp, as he had an important engagement.

The next morning Shorty flip-flapped silently in, carefully laid a note by the bedside, and noiselessly backed out. When Florea awoke shortly before mid-day, he found the note:

"Mr. Florea, it is now seven. Please wake up."

NAVY TRANSPORT HELICOPTER IN TRIAL. With its overhead propellers whirling at both ends, the Navy's new HRP-1 helicopter hovers over the ground in a trial run. Recently delivered to the Navy Air Test Center at Patuxent, Md., the double-rotored craft is powered by a 600 horsepower engine which enables it to attain speeds well over 100 miles an hour and to ascend and descend veretically with more than a ton of freight. Twenty are on order. (International)

19 War Reporters Given U. S. Medal

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, Sept. 26—U. S. Army headquarters announced today awards of the Medal of Freedom to 19 American war correspondents for "exceptionally meritorious achievement which aided the United States in the prosecution of the war against the enemy in continental Europe" in 1944 and 1945.

The awards went to Don Whitehead, Associated Press; Louis Azrael, Baltimore News-Post; John Bockhurst, News of the Day; Wright Bryan, Atlanta Journal; Robert Capa, Time and Life; Robert Cromie, Chicago Tribune; Joseph Evans, Newsweek; Thomas Henry, Washington Evening Star; George Hicks, National Broadcasting Company.

Pierre Huss, International News Service; Helen Kirkpatrick, Chicago Daily News; Andrew Lopez, Acme News Pictures; Drew Middletown, New York Times; Robert C. Miller, United Press; John O'Reilly, New York Herald Tribune; Virgil Pinkley, United Press; Mark Watson, Baltimore Sun, and Charles Wertenbaker, Time and Life.

A posthumous award went to William Stringer of Reuters, who was killed in France.

HE'S NO STLYE FADDIST. Nelice Jessee Reid, 85-year-old Charlton, Ont., bachelor who has dressed like a woman all his life because his mother decided to raise her sixth son as a daughter, shows that he is unaffected by controversies over skirt lengths or other "newfangled" styles. Reid, who has worked as a lumberman, farmer, construction hand and railroad fireman, has always stuck to the same style, that of the 1890s, on all these jobs. Now a district pensioner he lives in his tarpaper shack with 20 cats and indulges in his hobby of making his own clothes.

Pitcher, 60, Says It Keeps Him Young

By The United Press

LAKEVIEW, Wis. — Charlie Beyer, who'll be 60 next February, has pitched baseball and softball for more than 40 years and is still going strong.

Beyer now pitches for the Lakeview softball team.

"Baseball keeps a man young," he says. "I feel just like the kid I was years back. Never get stiff at all the next day after a game like some of these 40-year-old striplings."

VIOLENCE

members had just approached McBerty urging that the company not try to open the plant. Will feared that violence might result if the management tried to put any of the 800 company employes back on the job.

No arrest was made although Police Chief Walker, Police Captain Charles Lauer, five patrolmen, Crawford County Sheriff Ralph Schreck and two deputies were at the scene to protect property.

Edward Duck said he did not know who broke the windows. The union had previously said there would be no violence only if the company did not try to reopen the plant. Joseph Stafford, president of the McMiller unit of Local 750 UAW, said today that none of his men were at Galion last night. "We need them all in Marion," he declared.

McBerty in commenting on the company plan to seek an injunction against Duck and the UAW as soon as possible, stated that he would base his demands on the grounds of "violence and excessive picketing."

His company has already been issued a restraining order in the Morrow county court preventing interference by union organizers with employes at the Mt. Gilead plant which reopened last week. The "temporary" injunction holds indefinitely as the court set no date for further hearing on the permanency of the injunction request.

STOCKS STEADY BUT IMPROVEMENT SLIGHT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—Stocks steadied somewhat in today's market but improvement was negligible.

Demand was highly selective and never urgent. Except for a few special situations, advances were limited to narrow fractions, while some issues which dipped in early dealings stayed in lower ground.

Pacific Western Oil and Mission Corp., mentioned in rumors of a merger involving other oil companies, moved ahead around 2 points at one time. Lee Rubber responded to declaration of an extra payment and stock dividend. Others higher at times included International Telephone, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Dow Chemical, U. S. Rubber and U. S. Gypsum.

Lagging were Bethlehem, Union Carbide, Standard Oil (NJ), Chrysler and Deere and Co.

The Grocery War

IT IS now the official line of the Truman administration that you, the reader of this editorial, are a glutton and should mend your ways so the United States will be able to send more food to the punch-drunk losers of World War II—including some of the so-called winners.

You will be exhorted and abused, according to the present plans, in order to cover up the fact the Truman administration didn't consult mother nature before estimating how much food it could send abroad, in the wistful hope of keeping hungry Europeans from turning to the Russian police state. This is an ironic situation.

It is ironic because Americans are pushovers for appeals to their generosity and humanitarianism, but can be depended on to turn surly under the lash of government abuse. In other words, by shifting the blame to the people for eating too much, the lint headed fumblers in Washington are doing the thing most nearly calculated to complicate their problem of feeding the Europeans out of a half-empty grocery basket, it is the same boner the Roosevelt crowd of public abusers pulled during the war when they accused the people of laying down on war production, when the fact was that the Washington SNAFU was to blame for failure to meet production schedules.

Most Americans, we believe, want to help Europe to the limit of their ability. But they must do it under the extreme and inexcusable handicap of a government that is subsidizing food prices out of their reach and now has adopted the incredible slant that the people are wasting food.

Let Eleanor Do It

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT'S intercession for a former Communist she didn't know is an example of what happens when an amiable do-gooder casts her lot with a crowd of leftist sharpies. In this case, Hanns Eisler, brother of the notorious Gerhard Eisler and a great admirer of Stalin in his own right, gained entrance to the United States after Mrs. Roosevelt succeeded in having his case reopened.

Favors are obtained in Washington, so the cynics say, if you know someone in authority. In Mrs. Roosevelt's case that wasn't true. She had no position in the government. Nominally, she had no authority. Every time she asked a favor or interceded for a friend, or a friend of a friend, she abused the authority vested in her husband.

Never has there been a first lady who took such an active part in national affairs. Her sincerity was not to be denied, but her judgment was open to question, never more so than in the Eisler case.

Bird in Hand

THE Ford Motor Co. referendum is the first in which a large group of workers has been asked to choose between a flat wage increase or a smaller increase and a pension plan. By a margin of 10 to 1 they turned down the pension plan, despite union leaders' pleas that it be adopted.

The result is likely to be a strong deterrent to the consideration of jointly-financed welfare plans in other companies. General Motors had been deferring a similar plan until the outcome of the Ford vote.

The ballot leaves no doubt that workers are more interested in getting what they can today, leaving tomorrow to take care of itself. The rising cost of living may have influenced this decision, as union leaders observed. Another potent factor was that a bird in hand is always more attractive than two in the bush.

Ready-Made Explanations

READY-MADE explanations for high prices are being given away for nothing these days to anyone who will send in a prejudice or a reasonable facsimile. The Truman people say it's those Republicans, those Republicans say it's those meddlers in Washington, National Association of Manufacturers say it's those unions and the CIO, of course, says it's that Taft, who accuses that man, Truman, who blames it all on businessmen. It's pretty confusing.

A Westinghouse Corp. senior operating vice president named L. E. Osborne says it's because people are trying to get something more for nothing more. His explanation has the merit of being non-partisan and the further merit of being applicable at all levels of grabbers, including the European level. In short, it fits all the people trying to squeeze more milk out of the American cow without giving a whoop about the cow.

On days when we've no particular prejudice to send in for a ready-made explanation of high prices we'll quote Osborne instead—more and more people trying to get more and more stuff for less and less effort. It fits everybody. As the Quaker said, "Everybody's guilty but thee and me and sometimes I doubt thee."

Europeans Must Work

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Production Called World's Only Hope.

WHEN the Marshall plan was proposed, it was made clear that an innovation was being established. Instead of providing a general handout as heretofore, the United States would help those who helped themselves.

Secretary George Marshall proposed a conference at which the Europeans would analyze their own capacities to the end that the United States would provide the essential deficit. But the essence of the Marshall plan was that lend-lease, direct or indirect, legal by act of congress or surreptitious through relief, was at an end. It was no longer intended that the wealth of the United States would be siphoned off, that goods would be kept scarce and prices high here because of unusual and excessive exports abroad. That, in essence, was the plan and it has gone by the board.

Actually, the Marshall plan was an error, not of intent but of optimism. With the best of intentions and with the highest regard for his own country, George Marshall actually invited the Europeans to gang up on us. This they have ably done, but even more, they have laid the basis for future gangings-up. Instead of limiting this transaction to bookkeeping and balance sheets, they have moved into the political atmosphere of a crisis. They have produced an "either-or" situation. Unless we give them the money, they will go Communist. Unless we subsidize those now in control of these European states, their own Communists will come into power and their countries will be included among the Russian satellite states.

We are being threatened by the spectre of Soviet Europe—and we are being frightened into paying blackmail to that spectre.

Continued Story

It is like during the war. Every time the United States questioned the policy of Soviet Russia, our wise men were, in effect, threatened with the prospect that Russia might quit the war. It never occurred to them to say to Stalin: "Will Hitler let you quit?" It also never occurred to them to say: "What will Hitler do to you if we quit you?" The British and American statesmen were too honorable, too candid to do that kind of blackmailing, although steadily from the very beginning of our association with Soviet Russia, it was on the basis of "give-or else!"

We do not learn from experience. This new crisis is established to create public opinion in the United States, favorable to giving Europe cash and credits, equivalent to $13,810,000,000 plus $3,110,000,000 from the International bank—which is mostly our money. The rest of the American continents is to put up $5,570,000,000. The crisis is that unless the United States forks over, most of Europe will go Communist.

Well, if it is as easy for Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, the Scandinavian and other European countries—16 of them altogether—to go Communist, the question arises whether their character is good enough to continue providing credits. If they are so weak that they fear their own people, what assurance do we have that any credits we provide will do any good? We need some assurance that if we rebuild their factories, provide electrification and go through with the whole program, we are not really strengthening the Russian war base.

Details of Program

The recovery program, to be accomplished by 1951, has this fourfold objective:

►A strong production effort by each of the participating countries.

►The creation of internal financial stability.

►The maximum cooperation between the participating countries.

►A solution of the problem of the participating countries trading deficit with the American continent, particularly by exports."

Nothing more satisfactory could be said, but the details show little confidence in Europe's capacity for self-help. Out of a total deficit over a four-year period of $22,440,000,000, Europe offers to put up practically nothing on the theory that they are low on dollars. But dollars are not the criterion. It is work, materials, production. It is the courage to face facts and gets results. The politians apparently are afraid to speak up and tell the truth, namely, that Europeans must work at least a 54-hour week to pull through. That is worth more than dollars, because only production can save the world and production is manpower plus materials plus tools.

They All Play the T
(For Tears) Formation

The college football season really gets under way tomorrow and the wailing of the coaches is loud in the land.

If all the tears which have been shed in pre-game interviews could be collected, the nation would have two Great Salt Lakes.

Football coaches are born pessimists who have suffered a relapse. Their lives are dedicated to the proposition that every cloud has a darker lining, that everything is going to come out all wrong in the end.

This year most teams are loaded like an out-bound refugee train. But you could not get a single top-flight coach to admit, even under oath and the influence of truth serum, that he will be able even to field eleven men tomorrow.

Still, somehow, the games will be played . . . . and produce, surprisingly enough, as many winners as losers.

Despite the fact that nothing else offers so much mourning for so little loss of life, football has something for everyone: The victors get the headlines and the plaudits of the throng, while to the vanquished goes the pleasure of a satisfied, "I told you so."

A Dash of Realpolitik

By JOSEPH ALSOP

ROME, Sept. 26—Exhausted by the dreary haggling, terrified by the paralysis of his own country, one of the leading American policy-makers remarked in Paris that "it might be a good thing" if one of the great western European nations were engulfed in the Soviet tide. Such is the authentic anxiously discussed report here. The meaning of the remark was that warnings were useless; only the grim actuality of capture by the Soviets of some vital part of the western world could galvanize the United States into adequate action.

Italy is nearest, at the moment, to giving this ordinarily calm and intelligent man his somewhat despairing wish. Perhaps he is right. Perhaps warnings are useless. Nonetheless, before saying farewell to the Italian situation, it will be well to try to estimate in detail the price of Italy.

First, what will happen here? As indicated in previous reports, American abandonment of Italy in her present economic plight will almost certainly bring in a Communist - dominated government in the spring. Such a government will resemble the one now installed in Hungary, with a few Socialists and other stooges included more for show than use.

Believes "Control" Possible

To be sure, the leader of the Communist-linked Socialists, the worthy, but Wallace-like Nenni, believes the Communists can be "controlled." Many other Italians, unable to imagine the misery and disorganization of the winter that menaces them, doubt whether their country can be dominated by a political party acting for a foreign power.

But Yugoslavia is just across the border, and obvious source of arms and aid. Italian Communist partisan units are already in existence, available to be quickly transformed into a secret police. As happened in Germany, many of the remaining, presently uninfluential neo-Fascist elements in the population will be available to be purchased. And in the end, as any impartial observer can foresee, Communists controlling the government will again reduce the country to dictatorial rule.

Probable Developments

In this event, a long sequence of results will immediately ensue. Italy, first of all, will retire behind the iron curtain. Her markets will be closed, her goods denied to the other nations of the west. Thus one more, very drastic step towards total economic chaos will be taken. Second, in the political sphere, the triumph of the Communists in the very source-place of western culture will have an electric effect all over the rest of western Europe. Democrats and Socialists everywhere, and especially in France, will lose heart and courage. With their already gigantic economic problems also increased, their power to resist the Communists in their own countries will be weakened to the vanishing point. The Italian Communist triumph, in short, will tend to push over all the neighboring non-Communist regimes. Once the tide has cut across the sand bar, it will not be halted until it has formed a vast lagoon.

Strategic Location

Third, besides these obvious political and economic probabilities, there is the strategic certainty. Italy sticks down into the center of the Mediterranean in such a way that the Soviet Union, commanding Italy, will command the Mediterranean to east and west.

In the Italian balance, in truth, hang Greece, Turkey, the Middle East with its vital oil resources, North Africa and all that these imply. These are what we passed the Greek-Turkish aid bill to withhold from the Soviet grip. These are the greatest strategic prizes in the whole struggle between the Soviet and Western systems. If these come into Soviet hands, there will be no need to make delicate political and economic calculations about Britain's and western Europe's future. There will be no such future, until the situation is reversed by war or otherwise.

It's the Issue

And this, of course, is precisely the issue that is at stake here in Italy and in western Europe. Will it be peace or war? That is the real question. If western Europe holds firm now, and returns again to healthy life, American foreign policy can be continued without risk of war. If Italy and western Europe fall before the Soviets, however, the United States will have suffered a political, strategic and diplomatic defeat of such magnitude that the very independence of the Western Hemisphere will hardly be maintained except by the most terrible of all means.

Fights for Jobs for Physically Handicapped

By FRED J. ZUSY
Associated Press Writer

HE TALKS, SHE LISTENS. Paul Strachan, deaf, watches lips of Mildred Scott for incoming telephone conversation.

WASHINGTON—Lots of people in Washington, particularly congressmen, have heard Paul Strachan pound a desk as he drove home his arguments for helping the nation's 28,000,000 physically handicapped.

Strachan himself didn't hear it.

He's stone deaf and can list a half dozen other ailments which have kept him in hospitals seven of his 55 years.

Strachan is spearheading a movement to provide jobs for others with physical handicaps and to pass legislation for medical treatment, education and training.

His interest crystallized during his last hospital stay in 1940.

He started thinking about people in the same fix, broke and dependent, and says he realized "it was a case of tackling it myself or not seeing the job done."

These are some of his accomplishments:

►He founded the American Federation of the Physically Handicapped five years ago and is its president. The federation has 17,000 members throughout the country. Many are veterans.

►He engineered a National Employ the Physically Handicapped week. President Truman has proclaimed this observance for Oct. 5-11 this year. In 1945 nearly 13,500 physically handicapped persons were placed in jobs through the U. S. Employment Service during the first observance of this week. Last year there were 29,439 placements.

►His table thumping on Capitol Hill was one reason for organization of a house labor sub-committee which studied present helps available to the handicapped.

►Partly as a result of Strachan's untiring efforts, the civil service commission classified 8,200 of a total of 27,000 different government jobs as open to physically disabled persons—compared with 365 out of 6,800 five years ago.

►He is strongly behind a proposed law, introduced in January 1946 chiefly because of his insistence, which would integrate the activities of 41 federal agencies concerned with handicapped persons and require all industries and businesses handling federal contracts to fill up to two per cent of their jobs with handicapped persons.

Strachan is convinced his mission is a good one:

"We can 'rehabilitate'—and that is one word Strachan dislikes intensely—" a disabled person for about $350 a year. It costs at least twice that much to keep him in dependency. So it's good business to lend a hand."

He has attracted many of the nation's leaders to join his fight. They include Senators Johnson (D.-Colo.) and Sparkman (D.-Ala.); Reps. Carson (R.-O.), McCormack (D.-Mass.), Kelley (D.-Pa.) and Charles E. Potter, legless veteran recently elected to congress as a Republican from Michigan.

Strachan, married and the father of four sons, three of whom were in service, leans heavily on Miss Mildred Scott, secretary of the federation, herself handicapped as the result of infantile paralysis.

Miss Scott is Strachan's "ears." He talks constantly over the telephone although he is unable to hear the other person. Miss Scott listens in and relays the conversation to Strachan. He reads her lips.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A Call for Secret Diplomacy

TO THE DIPLOMATS OF THE WORLD;

Gentlemen:-

Please bring back secret diplomacy. The star chamber huddles was not so bad on account they at least allowed a little space between global headaches and didn't give all mankind the jitters before and after meals and also before bedtime.

* * *

Plenty of things done behind closed doors was not so clean but they gave a guy a chance to throw off his fright-wig, stick to his work, pay a little attention to raising a family and go to a world series game without wondering how are things in Gloca-Trieste.

* * *

They tell me that when Woodrow Wilson come out for opened covenants openly arrived at he drew top Hooper rating on account of everybody believed peace making should be done right out in public but anybody should of known better on the basis of ever having seen a attempt to settle a neighborhood dispute by window to window arguments and roof to roof rebuttals.

* * *

I guess it was felt that if everything was done out in the open like ice hockey there would not be no chance of hokus pokus, so we got rid of hokus pokus and got global voice throwing, international hysterics, permanent static disturbances and compulsory gooseflesh.

* * *

A lot of people had a idea it would be swell to put all the cards on the table but there is not no room today for cards on account of the microphones, notes and throat lozzenges and even if a card is put on a table it gets hid under a dictionary called "Ten Thousand Expletives For Any Gentlemen's Debate."

* * *

A diplomat clearing his throat is more alarming right now than a half dozen used to be rigging up a deal under a table. The mikes show the wear and tear by lunch-time and the echoes from them open-faced debates drift out across the meadows and kill the trees, grass and even make the Japanese beetle curl up.

* * *

When you see an old diplomat entering a peace meeting you get suspicious he might do something to upset the applecart. Today you KNOW he will.

* * *

The big gripe in the old days from what I hear was that the world did not know what was being said at them peace meetings, but looking back it must of been a great blessing to be ignorant of what was going on long enough to shake off the effects of trench feet.

* * *

The big break was that the whole world was not kept scared stiff by the way diplomats pop off, and we could all get up morning and just read the baseball scores and articles on the plan to put a new iron fence around the village green and the annual clambake with free beer instead of a lot of headlines like "NUTS TO YOU SAYS VISHINSKY," "SCRAM, SAYS EGYPT TO BRITISH" and "LIAR CHARGE IS A LIE SAYS STALIN."

* * *

So how is chances of getting together to shut all the doors, throw up a road block outside, pull down them shades and just go back to under the table stuff" I do not care how far under it you get or what names you yell at each other so long as it don't get all over the world and keep everybody working and sleeping with a bazooka beside him.

Too Late

By TRUMAN TWILL

This is the time of the year—with a trace of frost on the punkin—to think about the last roses of summer.

All the things that were going to be done during the long summer days and weren't—they're never going to be done now.

There's no use digging the weeds out of the lawn, or pulling them out of the flowerbeds.

That bedroom window screen that kept falling out all summer because it couldn't be fastened properly—it's too late to put it back now.

Those weekend trips that were going to be made during July and August will have to wait. July and August are a long time ahead.

The annual game of golf, the one that's played every year to back up the casual remark, "Oh yes, I play occasionally"—it will have to wait too.

There was going to be a lot of croquet in the back yard too; the yard was going to be rolled down smooth and a croquet court laid out scientifically.

Something was going to be done about the slabs of broken concrete and those tilted flagstones, something big and noble and constructive.

Roof repair was on the program. The man was going to come when he got around to it. That's what the man said, the liar.

Something also had been said about an overnight camping trip too, and the fewer tears shed about that one the better.

Whatever happened to the project for painting the garage, the storm windows, the back porch steps and the storm doors?

Who scuttled the program for building an outdoor fireplace, planting flowers on either side of the walk, keeping the shrubbery from getting out of hand and building a retaining wall?

Did anyone ever get any good out of that big family-size jug of sun-tan lotion that was going to make the family look like contented Indians?

Has anyone ever found out what happened to all the plants that were planted in the flower bed, or who ate all the apples?

Something was said about polishing the family jalopy too—a conscientious job was on the schedule. Whatever became of that?

The steps were going to be fixed, the sash weights put back into working order, the worst of the windows re-puttied and the wallpaper in the bedroom steamed off while the windows could be left open. What became of all those worthwhile plans?

In fact, what became of the summer of 1947?

exponent of the bipartisan foreign policy.

In fact, Taft proposed that the United States follow what he called "the Vandenberg plan" in dealing with Germany, instead of what he said was the so-called "Morgenthau plan" of reducing Germany to an agricultural state barely able to sustain herself.

Has German Plan

"There is only one way in which Germany can be effectively controlled," he declared. "That is to control the production of a limited number of essential products. The Vandenberg plan proposes that we stay in Germany indefinitely, but only to prevent rearmament."

In weighing against the possibility of what he termed an "international WPA," the Ohio senator said that the proposed Marshall plan of aiding Europe economically should be limited to loans "for a specific purpose and only to pay for goods shipped from the United States."

Criticizing what he said was the Democratic administration's "itching desire" to "tell the rest of the world how it shall run its affairs," Taft said that the "mess" made by the administration in its conduct of foreign affairs leaves "the world in a condition today not much less threatening than existed in 1940."

Greer Garson Sobs At Divorce Hearing

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26—"This isn't acting, chum—this isn't part of my job," sobbed Greer Garson outside the courtroom where she had just won a divorce from actor Richard Ney.

The red-haired actress, whose composure on and off the screen has seldom been noticeably ruffled, nearly broke down on the witness stand as she testified:

"I tried continually to smooth things over at home, but he made it impossible."

Then she dashed, weeping, from the courtroom.

Superior Judge Arthur Crum issued the decree on her allegations of cruelty, which she gave haltingly—that Ney spoke disparagingly of her work, and once kicked and pounded on her door when she had retired early because of a dawn studio call.

Miss Garson, 35, and Ney, 33, were married in July, 1943, after they appeared in "Mrs. Miniver" together, and separated last Jan. 20. There are no children.

Russia Proposes End Of Korean Occupation

By The Associated Press

SEOUL, Sept. 26—Simultaneous withdrawal of American and Russian occupation forces from Korea at the beginning of 1948 was proposed today by Col. Gen. T. F. Shtikov, chief Russian delegate to the joint commission on Korea.

The proposal, made at a commissionmeeting called at Shtikov's request, was regarded by some Americans here as an attempt to avoid consideration of the Korean issue by the United Nations. The United States has placed the issue before the UN.

American authorities here had no immediate comment on the proposal.

Bright Outlook Seen For Ohio Corn Crop

By The Associated Press

WOOSTER, O., Sept. 26—The outlook for a good Ohio corn crop is bright if the frost holds off another week, George Dustman, Wayne county farm agent, reports.

"Already corn is ripening as far north as the southern half of my county," he said yesterday, "and if the frost holds off, a really killing frost, until the average date, Oct. 7, for this area, we'll make all the corn we are entitled to—considering the late planting."

100 Million Bushels of Wheat Seen As Goal for Food Saving

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—The food saving problem facing Americans in their efforts to avert hunger abroad boils down largely to the question:

"How can we reduce our expected used of wheat about 100,000,000 bushels between now and next July?"

The government would like to ship at least 570,000,000 bushels of grain and grain products abroad this crop year, which ends next June 30. The cabinet food committee reports not more than 470,000,000 bushels will be available for export unless Americans conserve.

If Americans go along consuming as they have been, 860,000,000 bushels of wheat will be required to meet their needs this crop year—510,000,000 for flour, bread, breakfast food and other cereal products and 350,000,000 for livestock feed.

Farmers Turn to Wheat

This is about 170,000,000 bushels more than were used for the same purposes last year. All of this increase would be in the form of wheat for livestock feed. Because of the very short corn crop, many farmers will turn to wheat as a substitute for corn. This wheat would find its way to consumers in the form of meat, milk, eggs and poultry.

Several possibilities are open for trimming 100,000,000 bushels off this prospective use of wheat. Some would require voluntary consumer cooperation. Others would require reestablishment of wartime food controls. The latter cannot be reinstated without congressional authority.

On the voluntary side, use of wheat for flour could be reduced by returning to these conservation measures which were recommended in the 1946 food crisis abroad:

Serving single rolls or slices of bread, open-faced or single-crust pies; eliminating the custom of trimming toast and sandwich crusts; discontinuing the use of toast as a garniture with meat, poultry, eggs and other entrees; eliminating three-layer cakes and substituting fruits and other desserts for pastries and cakes whenever practicable.

On the compulsory side, savings could be made by returning to the so-called "gray" flour, cutting sizes of bread loaves and rolls, and rationing flour to bakers and other food manufacturers. These measures were used last year to save grain for export.

The gray flour would require less wheat to provide the number of pounds of flour consumers are expected to demand. In milling such flour, millers grind a larger portion of the wheat kernel into flour, including some of the dark outer layer.

But the government no longer has the authority to require manufacture of gray flour or to regulate sizes of bread loaves or to ration flour.

Some food officials believe the greatest savings could be made in the use of wheat for livestock feed. Wheat is considered a food grain rather than a feed grain. It is used in large quantities as feed only when corn supplies are short.

Father Goes To Cleveland

While the investigation took this new turn Carl E. Green, Roxie's father, drove to Cleveland airport this morning to make a more complete check on an incident reported there last Tuesday. He made the trip after receiving a telephone call last night from Roscoe Terry of Chicago. It was Mrs. Terry who reported seeing a girl resembling Roxie in the ladies' room of the Cleveland airport early Tuesday morning. She said the girl was barefooted and that her legs were muddy and scratched.

Mr. Green was accompanied to Cleveland by a neighbor, Harold Anderson. Mr. Terry informed Mr. Green last night that he would be in Cleveland today.

Reward Meeting Tonight

While these investigations were under way today residents of Prospect were preparing for a mass meeting tonight to launch a campaign to raise a fund as a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Roxie's abductor.

The meeting is set for 8 p. m. in the village council chamber. In case the crowd is too large to be accommodated there the meeting will be transferred to the high school auditorium, Rev. Ralph Knoop, committee chairman, said today.

Rev. Knoop said all contributors will be given receipts and that money will be returned in case the reward is not claimed.

Rev. Knoop added that no definite amount had been set as a goal for the drive. "I feel the community will give generously," he said, "since the incident has parents here worked up over the safety of their daughters."

Young "Detectives" Stopped

Widespread interest the case had created was demonstrated last night when Prospect Marshal Ed Fetter picked up two Marion boys turned amateur detective.

The boys created suspicion when, armed with pencils and notebooks, they called at a number of houses on route 47 to make inquiry into the case. The sheriff's office responded to calls about the boys but Marshal Fetter already had picked them up.

They were turned loose. "Just a couple of amateur detectives," Sheriff Retterer remarked.

Single Humane Standard Called Peace Necessity

By The Associated Press

GAMBIER, O., Sept. 26—Dr. Herman Finer, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, said today that "tragedy of our time" is that the responsibility for values and justice is established in single nations "and not in the sight of all humanity in an effective corporate organized form."

Finer made the statement in a speech at a session on politics opening the second annual conference of the heritage of the English-speaking peoples and their responsibility, three-day open discussion forum at 123-year-old Kenyon college.

Unless we apply a single standard of humanity to all men and women, Finer said, we shall never have peace because we shall not have justice.

Johnstown Man Freed In Manslaughter Case

NEWARK, O., Sept. 26—Jesse Sweeney, 50, Johnstown farmer, today was free after a Licking county jury last night found him innocent of manslaughter in connection with the death of Col. Clell Perkins, 55, Johnstown, last Nov. 22.

The defendant testified he shot the former Army officer twice after being threatened with a steel folding rule during a disagreement.

Sweeney was renting a farm from Col. Perkins who was chief Army veterinarian in the European theater during the Second World War.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Leaking Porch Roof

Q. There is a flat roof over our screened-in back porch. It leaks only in wintertime when the snow melts. Various suggestions have been made for the repair work. Can you suggest anything not too expensive? I wish to do the work at this present time.

A. The reason for the leakage when snow is lying on the roof is due to the fact that the flashings, where the walls join the roof, are not high enough. Water from melting snow and ice does not run off quickly. It accumulates on the roof, then finds its way down behind the flashings. Ask your roofing contractor to increase the height of flashings on the wall. Or, it may suffice to spread some roofing cement on the wall from the edge of the roof to a distance of about six inches above the present flashings.

Grease Spots on Wall

Q: Our kitchen is painted with flat wall paint. Now we want to enamel it, but there are some grease spots on the wall near the cookstove. I've used different kinds of wall cleaner on it, but the grease doesn't come off. Could you tell me what to use? I don't want the spots to show through the enamel.

A: For such stubborn spots, make a paste by mixing an absorbent powder with noninflammable, spot removing liquid and apply it over the spots like a poultice. For the powder use fuller's earth, powdered whiting, or something similar. Be sure the spot remover will not flame, but will be safe for use near the stove. Apply about one-fourth of an inch thick, and let it remain until dry. Then remove with a soft brush. Repeat until the spots disappear. Some of the color may come out of the wall, but as you are going to repaint, this will not matter. The walls must be clean of all dirt and grease before painting.

Dark Stained Floors

Q: How can I remove stain from floors that have never been varnished? They were stained quite dark some years ago. They have been waxed and rewaxed, but are light and dark, and not very pretty now. They are pine boards, and I would like to restore their original color.

A: Try to get a floor contractor to scrape the floors with his electric floor sanding machine and then refinish them for you. If this cannot be managed, see if you can rent a machine in good condition and be careful not to gouge the wood. This scraping should remove the old wax and stain. For a suitable finish, you can select shellac, floor varnish, a penetrating floor seal or penetrating floor wax. The two latter will not be so glossy as the others, but are good-looking, durable, and when worn in spots can be touched up without showing a patched effect. They will take a wax polish nicely.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat
It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.
If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

An Army private who missed important battles has been freed on a defense of amnesia. There's an idea for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

* * *

Their defense might be that nothing happened to them worth remembering . . . I hear Crosby is looking for a transcribed team after one year of lite baseball.

* * *

But amnesia is more common today than is suspected . . . Many people clamoring for the good old days seem to have forgotten most of the bad old features.

* * *

You never can tell where amnesia will turn up . . . I hear there is one case in Washington right now.

* * *

A man was overheard to say, "I remember arriving in Chicago in 1944 and that's all I remember.

At the moment Brooklyn is trying to get the Dodgers to forget 1941 . . . Anyone who practices casting amnesiatic spells will be welcomed at Borough hall.

RITES PLANNED FOR WAR DEAD

High Officials Given Role in Ceremonies as First Group Starts Home.

By The Associated Press

BRUSSELS, Sept. 26—Ranking American military and governmental officials led by Alan G. Kirk, U. S. ambassador to Belgium, and Gen. Lucius D. Clay, commander-in-chief of the European command, will participate in ceremonies arranged for the departure of the first ship of World War II dead to the United States.

Brig. Gen. H. L. Peckham, commanding general, American Graves Registration command, European area, announced the arrangements for the ceremony to be held Oct. 4, in the historic Grand Place of the city of Antwerp.

Some 5,600 military dead will have been placed aboard the U. S. Army Transport Joseph B. Connolly, docked at a pier near the Grand Place. A U. S. Navy destroyer will be present.

Salute from Air

During the ceremony, the first of its kind in Europe, 20 P-47 Thunderbolt fighter planes will circle over the city, dipping their wings in salute.

The Air Force also will be represented at the rites in the Grand Place and a regiment of the first U. S. Infantry division will be in attendance. A special detachment from the U. S. Navy and a detachment of U. S. Marines will join in the departure ceremony, along with representatives of the Army Nurse corps, the Women's Army Corps and the Red Cross. Catholic, Jewish and Protestant chaplains will invoke prayers for the dead and Belgian clergy will be asked to participate.

Shipside Ceremony

Following the rites in the Grand Place, participants will move to the pier for a final ceremony at shipside. Then the Connolly will cast off her lines and, escorted by the destroyer, will slowly make her way down the river to the sea. As she moves down the tide the fighter planes again will dive over her in a final tribute.

The dead to be returned aboard the Connolly originally were buried at Henri-Chapelle, U. S. military cemetery in eastern Belgium. Henri-Chappelle was closed at a special "benediction" ceremony July 27 and disinternment operations began July 28. The dead were brought to Antwerp by barge. Several hundred additional bodies will be placed aboard the transport at Iceland and Newfoundland.

Simultaneously with the departure ceremony in Antwerp, the U. S. flags over the 28 embassies and legations and at the military and naval establishments in Europe will be lowered to half-mast. Troops and civilian war department employes, as well as embassy and legations staffs, will hold ceremonies on the day the Joseph V. Connolly puts out to sea.

Second Pilgrim Holiness Church Sets Golden Jubilee Services for Sunday

Rev. Celia Bradshaw Winkle of Cincinnati will be special speaker for Golden Jubilee rally services at Second Pilgrim Holiness church Sunday, Rev. Albert M. Hood, pastor, announced. The occasion will be observance of the fiftieth anniversary of founding of the denomination, and will be a celebration worldwide in scope.

REV. CELIA B. WINKLE

The goal is to double Sunday school attendance that day by having 160 present, part of a plan of the Ohio district to reach attendance of 12,000 in Sunday schools for the anniversary. Organization of the denomination took place in September, 1897, when a group met in the home of Rev. M. W. Knapp in Cincinnati. Rev. Seth Cook Rees was general superintendent of the church from that year until 1905, then served again in that capacity from 1926 to 1933. International headquarters is now in Indianapolis, Ind. There are now 1,013 Pilgrim churches in 34 states and in 28 foreign fields, with 1,253 ordained ministers, 567 licensed ministers, including 88 foreign missionaries. The church has 10 Bible Training schools and colleges. In doctrine the church is described as orthodox, fundamental and evangelical.

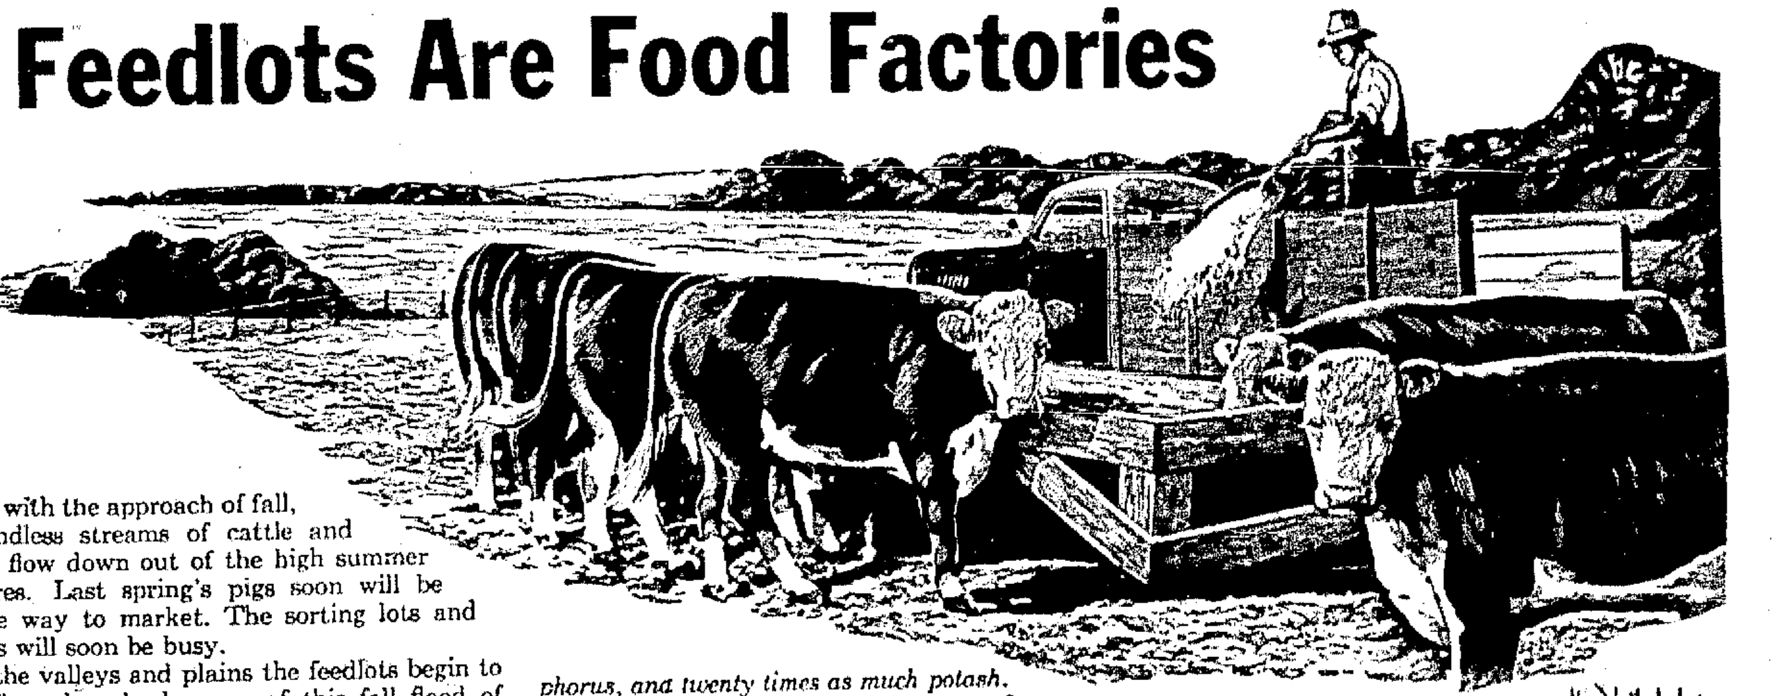
Feedlots Are Food Factories



Now, with the approach of fall, the endless streams of cattle and lambs flow down out of the high summer pastures. Last spring's pigs soon will be on the way to market. The sorting lots and corrals will soon be busy.

In the valleys and plains the feedlots begin to fill. They dam back some of this fall flood of animals . . . You who feed livestock know well how important this is. You realize that it helps avoid periods of glut and scarcity, by stretching out, over months, the time of marketing. You know, too, how such year 'round marketing serves to lessen big "feast-or-famine" price fluctuations. And who should understand better than you how the feedlots of America add millions of pounds to the nation's meat supply?

Feedlots save for the land much of the fertility which the selling of grain crops and hay would take out of the land. For example, you sell a steer that has gained 500 pounds in your feedlot. You are selling off your land only about 12½ pounds of nitrogen, 3 pounds of phosphorus, 1 pound of potash, which his body has absorbed out of your feeds. But suppose you were to sell as cash crops the grain and hay which you put into that steer. Then you would deplete your soil of about seven times as much nitrogen, four times as much phosphorus, and twenty times as much potash.

Keeping the soil fertile through use of manure from livestock is only one factor in judging whether "feeding" is likely to be a profitable venture. There are many others which are being constantly studied by individuals, colleges, and experiment stations. In every feeding area they are trying out new rations, watching costs, plugging "leaks," developing more efficient feeding techniques. So if you are feeding livestock, or are considering it, it may be worth your while to consult your county agent, vocational agriculture teacher, or state agricultural college. Ask them what they have that's new in up-to-the-minute feeding information . . . maybe you'll find some new wrinkle that will lower your costs, increase your profit possibilities.

New "Slant" Saves Pigs

Farrowing pens with sloping floors are the answer to clumsy sows that step or lie on baby pigs. The slant of the floor takes advantage of the natural tendency of sows to lie with their backs uphill, while the tiny baby pigs tumble downhill safely out of her way. Used extensively in Kentucky, sloping floors have cut baby pig losses to only one out of thirty, according to W. P. Garrigus of the University of Kentucky. He writes:

"Crushing or crippling by brood sows is the chief cause of pig losses. Normally, one out of every five new-born pigs is doomed to be mashed or severely crippled by clumsy, awkward brood sows the first day or so after farrowing. This loss to the swine industry adds up to a staggering total. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, each pig killed at farrowing represents a loss of 140 pounds of the feed consumed by the sow during the gestation and suckling periods. Figuring two pigs killed to the litter, this loss in one year alone, 1944, cost hog men 75 million dollars.

"Very little of this tremendous loss needs to be tolerated. Three years of experimentation and observation of herd tests in Kentucky show that sows farrowing on sloping floors raised from one to four pigs more than when they farrowed on level floors. On 49 Kentucky farms where records have been kept, with 385 litters, an average of only one pig out of 30 farrowed has been crushed on sloping floors."

The College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky., has detailed information on sloping floors for farrowing pens, instructions for building, etc.

Martha Logan's Recipe for
SAUSAGE AND LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE

1 pound pure pork sausage	¼ cup chopped onion
1½ cups dried lima beans (3½ cups cooked)	¼ teaspoon dry mustard
	1 teaspoon salt
3 cups hot water	½ cup tomato juice

Soak beans in hot water for 8 to 10 hours. Simmer beans about 1½ hours in the same water in which they were soaked. Brown half of the sausage and the onion, stirring lightly. Drain off excess fat. Combine cooked beans, browned sausage, onion, mustard, and salt. Place in a one-quart casserole. Make ten small balls from remaining sausage meat. Place on top of hot bean mixture. Pour tomato juice over beans. Bake in a covered casserole in a slow oven (325° F.) for 45 minutes. Uncover. Bake 15 minutes longer to brown sausage. (6 to 8 servings.)

WINTER FEEDING AFFECTS SUMMER GAINS

Summer gains made by yearling steers on grass vary with the amount of gain made during the previous winter, according to new data reported by the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station.

The experiments conducted by the Department of Animal Husbandry there were designed to find an answer to this question, "How much should calves gain during the winter months in order to make the best use of grass the following summer?"

Six lots of choice calves were used in the test. They were fed to gain at three different rates—high (1.3 pounds per head daily); medium (about 1 pound per head daily), and low (about ½ to ¾ of a pound per head daily).

The report of the experiments indicates: (1) that steer calves which gained at the medium to low rates made the most economical use of grass during the early part of the grazing season; (2) that combined profits from wintering and early-season grazing were in favor of the lots wintered at medium and low rates of gain; (3) that, of four lots of steers which were continued on grass during late summer and early fall, the ones which had been fed at the lowest rate of winter gain (.69 pounds per head daily) continued to make the greatest gain on grass; (4) that there is definite evidence that calves wintered on grass and cake to gain ½ to ¾ of a pound a day will produce desirable feeder yearlings at a greater profit than those which gain from 1 to 1½ pounds per day in winter.

This interesting experiment is reported in detail in Oklahoma A. & M. College (Stillwater), Miscellaneous Publication No. MP-11.

How many Meat Packers?

Here's an interesting thing to note. There is, on an average, more than 1,000 miles between the point where livestock is raised and the point where the meat products are eaten. Largely because of this 1,000-mile gap, national meat packers came into being.

The small meat packers buy livestock locally, slaughter and sell meat in the territory surrounding their plants. In addition to this service, nationwide organizations are equipped to do another big job—and do it economically. They perform the service of moving dressed meat the long distances from areas of production to large consuming areas where relatively little livestock is produced. These areas of great meat consumption and small meat production depend upon nationwide meat packers, like Swift & Company, for a large part of their meat products. Livestock-producing areas also depend on the large meat packers, as an outlet for the livestock their immediate market cannot consume.

Most livestock producers market their livestock at only one market. So they come in contact with only a few livestock buyers. Dealing with such a small number of firms leads farmers and ranchers, naturally enough, to the thought that there is only a small number of meat packers in the United States. Actually, according to the latest figures available, there are approximately 4,000 meat packers and about 22,500 other commercial slaughterers of livestock. Some slaughter millions of head per year. Others kill thousands of head annually, and still others only hundreds.

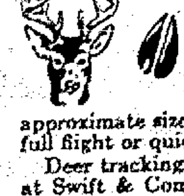
Track Down the Facts



If you ever see tracks like this in the snow, dust, or mud, you'll know there's been a white-tailed deer around. An experienced hunter can tell from the tracks how long since they were made, the approximate size of the deer, and whether it was in full flight or quietly going about its business.

Deer tracking is considerably out of our line here at Swift & Company. But we do have a staff of trained fact hunters. Their job is to track down the facts which control our business operations. They study the U. S. Department of Agriculture figures on livestock supplies. They "track down," too, the demand for meat . . . what weights and grades housewives everywhere are asking for . . . what cuts they prefer.

Our "fact trackers" know full well that the price of livestock is governed by what the meat packer can get for the meat and by-products.

Cubs Trounce Muncie, 13-8

Bruins Stage 7-Run Explosion in Ninth; Frank Smith To Try Clincher Tonight

Special To The Star

MUNCIE, Sept. 26—The Marion Cubs exploded seven runs in a big ninth inning to sink the Muncie Packers, 13-8, in the fourth game of the Shaughnessy playoff series here last night. The win was the third in four starts for the Cubs.

The game was a free hitting contest with both teams collecting 15 hits each. Marion got away to a 3-0 lead in the first inning but Muncie came roaring back and as the clubs entered the ninth the Packers led 8-6.

Elmo Comotti, victim of a nine-run inning in Marion a few nights ago, was again on the hill for Muncie when the roof caved.

Smith Starts It Off

John Smith walked to start the stanza and when Wally Rasmussen's potential double play ball was kicked around by Tom Florence at second, all hands were safe.

Maxhimer, Manager Nelson Burbrink and Bob Shuford followed with singles and Comotti was lifted in favor of Walter Post. The Cubs continued their assault on the relief hurler, seven tallies being recorded before the final out was made.

Jitts Lawrence, third pitcher used by Marion, held the Packers away from paydirt in the ninth to chalk up his second victory of the current playoff series, both coming in relief roles.

Forbes Gets Rough

Jim Forbes, until last night the most docile man with the stick on the Marion ball club and Johnny Smith led the Cubs' batting attack. For Muncie, Bob Montag, Al Spaziano and Don Kirby were outstanding with the willow.

Teams clash here again tonight and if additional contests are needed the scene will shift back to Marion. Another Cub victory would eliminate Muncie from further contention.

Eddie Post, ace southpaw of Manager Mike Blazo's hurling staff, will attempt to halt Marion tonight. Manager Burbrink is expected to use either Frank Smith or John Edington.

Zanesville Strolls To 5-1 Third Victory

Zanesville sent four runs home in one inning while strolling to a 5-1 victory over Springfield last night.

Zanesville touched Springfield's Tony West for only one hit before he weakened in the sixth. Errors by shortstop Vince Grady and left fielder Dick Vonderhaar, and four hits gave Zanesville four scores.

If Springfield wins tonight, the series will be concluded at Zanesville starting tomorrow night, while Muncie and Marion return to Marion on a Muncie victory today.

UPPER SANDUSKY TRIPS VERNON, 13-0

Upper Sandusky rolled over Vernon Heights in the junior high school football opener at the Stadium yesterday, 13-0.

Fleet right half Norman Cline scored the first tally all the way from the 35. A bad pass from center miffed the try for the extra point. Cline carried the ball for Central last year before his family moved to Upper.

The half time gun ruined a determined Vernon scoring threat in the second period after the junior gridders had made a steady advance to the Upper 20 yard line.

Jerrie Wall plunged over from the one for pay dirt in the third quarter after Upper marched down from midfield. Cline went over for the extra point.

Vernon had trouble making their advance count, marking up 11 first downs to Upper Sandusky's six. Quarters were eight minutes long.

About 250 fans watched the junior opener.

Prexies Rate As Favorite; Irish Face Bruising Battle

Both local high school football teams play away tonight—Harding goes to Tiffin Columbian and St. Mary travels to Carey.

While the Presidents have a slight edge over Columbian, the Irish look like underdogs to the undefeated Carey Blue Devils.

Neither local team has been beset by first string injuries this week.

26 Prexies To Go

Prexy Coach Pete Howison will take 26 of his squad to Tiffin, leaving the sophomores behind to meet Lima Central Saturday morning at Lima. The Prexies will be trying for their second victory in three starts, as will the Irish.

St. Mary Coach Gene Fetter will take 25 Irish with him to Carey. They'll try to throw a monkey wrench into the Blue Devil machine that has rolled up 11 straight victories.

Brooklyn Pitching Rounds Into World Series Shape

By The Associated Press

The Brooklyn pitching, object of derision during the past few weeks, is beginning to show signs of rounding into form for the World Series clash with the New York Yankees.

Last night, at Philadelphia, it was Vic Lombardi's and Ralph Branca's turn to shine. Lombardi, hurled three innings of last night's completed game of Aug. 17. He allowed but one man to reach base—Andy Seminick who belted a home run. The Dodgers won, 7-5.

In the second game, which the Dodgers also won, 5-2, in 10 innings, 21 game winner Branca held the Phils to five hits and one run before retiring at the end of five innings.

The opener was a resumption of a game which was halted after six and a half innings by Pennsylvania's 7 p. m. curfew law with the score Brooklyn 5, Philadelphia 4. The completion was ordered by League President Ford Frick who charged both teams with "stalling."

The St. Louis Cardinals, clinched second place money, sweeping a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 15-3 and 3-1. After the twin bill it was announced Pirate Manager Billy Herman had resigned.

The Cards now have a four-game lead over the Boston Braves who lost, 3-1, to the Giants.

In the only other game in the majors, the St. Louis Browns, with Jack Kramer yielding five hits, put a dent in Cleveland's bid for second place in the American league, defeating the Indians, 4-3, before only 315 paying customers.

Big John Mize banged out his 51st home run of the season to tie Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh for the major league lead in leading the Giants to their win over the Braves. Kiner went homerless in the two games against the Cards.

Grid Angels To Play Mendon Tomorrow

Marion Angels meet Mendon Red Jackets in the second home semi-pro football game of the season scheduled to start at 8:00 p. m. in the Stadium tomorrow.

Coach Gene Fetter has had the Angels drilling on offense the past two weeks in preparation for the first Inter-State conference game of the season. The Angels game with Dayton Merchants scheduled for last Sunday was postponed, giving the Angels an extra week of practice.

The Inter-State conference was just formed this year. Others in the conference are 7-Up All Stars Indianapolis, Lockland Legion L, Dayton Rockets, and Sheridan Indiana Merchants, all of whom are on the Angel's schedule this season. Winner of the conference gets a cup.

The unbeaten and unscored upon Angels are rated to take Mendon.

Probable starting Angel lineup—ends, Howard Richardson and Max Roseberry; tackles, Bob Dull and Vern White; guards, Martin Lewis and Bob Berry; center, King Keller; quarterback, Ed Simmons; halfbacks, Bus Reams and Bob Ivey, and fullback, Bill Scott.

Baseball Tournament Scheduled at Bucyrus

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Sept. 26—Drawings for places in the 1947 Crawford county hardball tournament, scheduled to open on Lions field here Oct. 7, have been held. The tourney, held annually, determines the county's representatives to the district tournament next spring.

The play will start with three games Oct. 7; three Oct. 9 and the semi-finals and finals, Saturday Oct. 11, the finals to be played under lights.

Edison made their only score in the last quarter when a long pass from Reeves sent Luke over from the 30. Galion came back for another touchdown when Dickson intercepted an Edison pass and galloped 40 yards for the touchdown. The point was good.

Dayton Sports Editor Rated Best Guesser

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 26 — Best guesser among Ohio State league writers today was Sports Editor Ritter Collett of the Dayton Journal who last spring named the finishing positions of five teams.

League President Frank M. Colley yesterday awarded Collett a $25 prize in the fourth annual contest.

Collett correctly guessed Zanesville would finish first, Muncie third, Springfield fourth, Newark seventh, and Lima eighth.

He misplaced Dayton at second, but his own club finished sixth. Marion was named for fifth, but ended second, and Richmond got fifth spot instead of Collett's guess of sixth.

Dale Stevens of the Richmond, Ind., Palladium-Item placed second, and Bob Worth of Newark, was among the money winners at third. Worth has been a prize winner each year.

TRIBE TO PLAY DETROIT

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 26 — The Cleveland Indians, still retaining a slim change at second place in the American league, meet the runner-up Detroit Tigers today in the opener of a three-game series.

Champs Smash Commercial Steel, 23-1, For Third Straight City Softball Crown

Schlairet Transfer won its third straight city softball Little World Series with a vengeance last night, walloping Commercial Steel, 23-1, at Crystal Lake park.

Playing errorless ball behind Biggerstaff's four-hit pitching, Schlairet collected 20 hits off three Commercial pitchers. Included among the hits were four circuit clouts, three of them by Mulvaine.

The winning run came early in the game when Creasap's double in the second scored Holliday and Stout, on base off a hit and a walk.

But Schlairet had only started. Mulvaine's homer in the third with one on started a seven-hit, nine-run inning. Mulvaine knocked a second homer in his second turn at bat in the third, scoring two more. Reed, Creasap, Biggerstaff, K. Simerlot, and Dillon all connected in that inning.

Commercial's McClarey hit a homer in the fourth, scoring their only run.

Two more homers were clouted in the fifth, and, again, Mulvaine was responsible for one of them. French hit the other. Schlairet scored six runs off seven hits in that inning.

Season record for Schlairet now stands at 33 won and four lost. The win last night was the twenty-first in a row for the Commercial loop champs. Schlairet hasn't dropped a game since the Fourth of July, and has made only four errors in the last 14 games.

Kenny Somerlot, Schlairet catcher and manager, attributes the team's success to smart fielding and to the pitching of Bill England and Sherman Biggerstaff. He didn't mention Schlairet hitting.

BAR ASSOCIATION WINDS UP MEETING

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26 — The American Bar association prepared today to close its 70th annual meeting with rush of final business and the presentation of a new president, Tappan Gregory of Chicago.

A reassurance that England will "surmount this present crisis" without "going totalitarian" was delivered by the lord chancellor, Viscount Jowitt, in the final address of the five-day convention.

Lord Jowitt told ABA's annual dinner last night that a planned economy was the demand of the British people, but that it involved no breakdown of cherished traditions of individual rights and government under law.

Election of three new members of the ABA board of governors—Charles Ruzicks of Baltimore, Albert B. Houghton of Milwaukee, Wis., and James G. Mothershead of Scottsbluff, Neb.—was part of today's assembly program.

Gregory, the first son of a bar association president to attain the same honor, was nominated by the state bar delegates in February.

In the absence of other nomination—as is usual—the election was automatic. His father was the late Stephen S. Gregory, president in 1911-12 and the first editor in chief of the ABA Journal. The son, 61, was president of the Illinois State Bar association in 1945-46 and of the Chicago bar in 1939-40.

A resolution putting ABA's weight behind the pending legislation to bring military justice up to civilian standards got quick approval in yesterday's late assembly session. It would make the judge advocate general, dispenser of Army justice, independent of the Army's command.

The high justice of Ontario, J. C. McRuer, was elected by the board of governors as an honorary member of ABA, and William L. Ransom of New York City was awarded the ABA's gold medal.

Held for Eavesdropping On Newlywed Neighbors

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 26—Charged with eavesdropping on newlywed neighbors by installing a dictagraph in their bedroom, Karl P. Hartman, 30, was held under $1,000 for court arraignment today.

Police said Hartman hooked the instrument up to a loudspeaker and sometimes invited friends in to listen to the talk of the young couple, with whom he was friendly.

Another attachment was connected with Hartman's automobile, police said, so he could listen through earphones.

The stunt backfired, police said, when the car radio sent sweet seranades back into the bedroom. Officers reported the dictograph was found under a bureau.

Hartman was quoted as telling police he didn't really hear much of the boudoir talk. The young newlyweds kept the radio in their bedroom turned up too loud, he said.

Last night's demonstration was in charge of John Seighel of Toledo and Charles Baldwin, representative of a local automobile concern. The jeep was built by a Toledo automobile manufacturing firm and the pumper constructed by an Indiana fire engine company.

Says War Was Near Sept. 15

Solon Holds Conflict Would Be Going On Now if Slav Army Hadn't Run.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio) says that "lack of courage" by a Yugoslav army unit "is the chief reason that we are not now engaged in a Third World War."

He made the statement in a letter from Triests, made public by his office here.

Jenkins wrote that on Sept. 15 the Yugoslavs "decided to force themselves" into territory controlled by American and British occupation forces.

He continued that a Yugoslav officer served notice on the British army that his forces would move through British and American lines "by force if necessary."

"It was evident," Jenkins wrote, "that this officer was acting purely as a messenger boy for the authorities in Belgrade and Moscow. He was told by the American and British officers that his forces would not be permitted to pass, and that he should return to his forces and advise the authorities that their conduct might precipitate World War III, and that they should be careful of their actions. The American and British officers contacted their respective governments who advised them to stand firm and who made protest immediately to Belgrade and Moscow.

"At midnight the Yugoslav army came forward with a large number of men and with horse drawn artillery, indicating their purpose to go through. The American and British forces stood firm and resolved that the Yugoslavs would be compelled to start the conflict. The Yugoslavs turned and went back down the hill. The lack of courage on the part of these Yugoslavs is the chief reason that we are not engaged in a Third World War."

PRICE INQUIRY ENDS AFTER 4-DAY MEET

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26—Politicians looking into the high cost of living wound up a four-day investigation today after hearing a chain grocery executive put partial blame for high prices on fastidious shoppers.

The trouble with too many consumers, said Joseph R. Gibbons, vice president of Fisher Bros. Co., is that they insist on having the best quality foods.

His concern, he told the congressional subcommittee yesterday, had tried to stop the food price rise by cutting down on purchases from wholesalers—to the point "in some instances of being without merchandise."

Adam Guth, board chairman of the Cleveland Retail Meat Dealers association, said:

"The consumer apparently still has enough money to be choosey about the type of meat he wants. He complains about the high prices, but he still insists on getting the particular cut he wants and will overlook lower priced meat."

In other testimony before the committee, I. J. Kusse, president of the Greenhouse Vegetable Packing Co., said he could not understand why retail prices on food were so high. Wholesale prices on many fresh foods, he said, are now lower than prewar figures.

NO RENT INCREASES REPORTED TO DATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—No general rent increases have been granted under the new control law which went into effect nearly three months ago, and few are in prospect for another month.

An aide to Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon said today the local advisory boards established in each defense rental area have had little opportunity thus far to do anything except organize and study the rental picture.

The boards, named by Creedon on recommendation of the governors of the states, are authorized to (1) recommend blanket ceiling revisions, either upward or downward, in their areas, (2) recommend decontrol of all or a portion of their areas, and (3) review hardship cases, either before or after an appeal to the local rent administrator.

Only one recommendation for revision of rental ceilings has been made to Creedon's office but it has not been made public pending a policy decision by Creedon whether to disclose such recommendations when they are received or only after they have been acted upon.

Under the new law, Creedon has 30 days in which to approve or reject recommendations or to notify the local board that he needs more information.

Meanwhile, the official in Creedon's office said, there has been a drop in the number of rent increase leases registered with the expediter's office. The law permits increases up to 15 per cent provided the tenant voluntarily agrees to a lease extending through 1948.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I LOOKED at Noel in honest astonishment.

"And you are the son of Philip Veritzen, the greatest impresario of his time, and the husband of Mary Veritzen, famous actress," I said, "and yet can believe an utterance like that! For you do believe it, I know that, Noel. You are sincere in this utterly false premise."

"Utterly false premise!" he repeated, his voice shrill, and I wondered if I had gone too far. "What do you mean by that?"

"Will you listen calmly while I tell you?" I asked, and he sank back in his chair with his whole body sagging.

"Yes, go ahead," he said listlessly, while I marshalled all my own arguments and those Dr. Twitchell had given me.

"In the first place, Noel, you and Mary are floating on top of romantic clouds now, and you should not make any momentous decision until you have had an opportunity to consider it coolly and carefully."

I stopped, and after a second he spoke reluctantly.

"Yes, I granted you that," he said.

"In the second place, you ought not to impose your own will on Mary. You ought to be sure that whatever decision she makes is not influenced by word or thought from you. Isn't that fair? She would not think of interfering with your musical career."

Flush Gone

The flush had gone from his face now, leaving it pallid. And his voice was hoarse, when he answered my question.

"Yes, that's fair," he admitted, then added stubbornly: "But I'm sure she feels the same way that I do about it."

I dodged that question and took another tack.

"What makes you feel that way about it, Noel?" I asked. "Tell me!"

"You ought to know," he said. "Haven't you seen some of these stage children whose mothers are actresses?" How can a mother care for a child properly when she doesn't spend every waking and sleeping minute with it? My mother did, until she—died."

In his voice was all the adoration that was his for the gentle, self-effacing mother who had been Philip Veritzen's escape-emotion for the loss of Olga, the beautiful princess who had been the love of his life, and who now in the autumn of their lives, was restored to him. But I could not say to that gentle mother's son that the sheltering devotion she had given him had hampered him in facing the world. Nor could I tell him that the reason for the devotion was her realization that she was an unloved, though cherished wife, and that the love of her child was her only source of happiness.

"I think you're looking at the thing from a distorted angle, Noel," I told him. "I know there are many neglected stage children. But I also know celebrated and gifted actresses who are model mothers. Why should you do Mary the injustice of believing that she would be less devoted, less conscientious than those others?

"I hate to sound the personal note, Noel," I went on swiftly, "but I do not believe Junior, or Faith, or my husband's orphaned nephew Roderick, have been neglected because of my work as a playwright."

Horrified Realization

There was horrified realization in his eyes now.

"Good God, Aunt Madge!" he exclaimed. "You don't think I meant you when I said that about my mother? She—she—didnt have anything else to do but care for me!"

"I would rather you would think that of me, Noel," I said calmly,, "than that you should believe Mary could ever neglect a child."

"I don't believe it!" he cried. "But I am sure she—"

His voice trailed off into silence, and I let the stillness curl around us for a few seconds.

"Just how sure are you, Noel, of Mary's feeling about giving up her stage career for motherhood?" I asked at last.

He put his head in his hands, and there was another silence before he answered.

"God help me!" he said at last. "I am not sure at all of what she feels."

I went over to him, and put a friendly hand on his shoulder.

"Noel dear," I said softly, "you are taking all this too seriously. Believe me, if Mary wishes to keep on with the theater—and she would be a freak if she didn't, as rarely gifted a person as she is—it will be perfectly possible to combine her career with having a child. But I really called you down here for something else. Mary has just finished an interview with Dr. Twitchell in which, at Aunt Katharine's request, she has asked him about the possibility of motherhood. I do not believe she spoke at all about the theater. But I think, don't you, that you should hear the result of that interview?"
